Learn about the Art of Curiosity

Albert Einstein generally did not like school, but it all changed when teachers nurtured his curiosity and encouraged him to ask a lot of questions and even express criticisms.

WHAT IS THE ART OF CURIOSITY

Are you a curious person? Are you curious about curiosity? Ever wonder how curiosity contributes to creativity, innovation, and getting more done (while having fun doing it)? What if with a deeper understanding of the principles of Curiosity-Based Thinking and by applying the processes of Curiosity-Based Thinking you can harness your innate curiosity to make you a better educator, leader, mentor, speaker, or manager? The Art of Curiosity provides you with both a foundation of understanding Curiosity-Based Thinking and a framework for how to use it immediately in whatever you are doing now and need to do in the future.

Course: Art of Curiosity

Date: April 28 – 29, 2022

Time: 10:00am – 4:00pm (Beirut time zone)

Hybrid Venue: Ideanco Beirut Office (State-of-the-art office) and Virtual

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN

The Art of Curiosity will help you develop practical tools, practices, and processes to guide you in living a more creative, satisfying, and productive professional and personal life by learning how to train your curiosity to do more for you. You will learn how you can immediately take your greatest resource—your curiosity—and start putting it to work in ways that provide you with clear pathways for more effective communicating, serendipitous collaborations, and discovering more creative solutions. In doing so, you will become more comfortable being uncomfortable and gain greater confidence confronting the future and innovating for the unknown.

IS THE ART OF CURIOSITY RIGHT FOR YOU

The Art of Curiosity will help you learn how to use your curiosity to search out-of-the-ordinary places in order to uncover out-of-the-box solutions that will help you prepare for, thrive in, and create a better tomorrow.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

The Art of Curiosity course will teach you how to exercise your curiosity like a muscle so you will be able to put it to work whenever ordinary approaches and solutions won't do. By learning how to access and strengthen your curiosity you will build tools and habits you can access and apply to whatever problems you face.

COURSE OUTCOME

Participants that successfully pass will be awarded a Certificate of Completion endorsed by the Harvard Aerospace and Defense Alumni Organization at Harvard University

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

No prior experience is required

The background of the slide is a light gray field filled with numerous small, circular icons. These icons represent a wide range of subjects and concepts, including science (like a planet, a lightbulb, a microscope, and a DNA helix), technology (like a smartphone, a laptop, and a Wi-Fi symbol), education (like a graduation cap, a book, and a person at a desk), and general concepts (like a thumbs up, a clock, and a shopping cart). The icons are arranged in a somewhat random pattern, creating a rich, textured background.
